"Y" War Worker Probably Will Pail to Get Old Place Again.

The city beard of education will convene Thursday night in special session for the one purpose of settling the question of whether or not Prof. W. G. Deen, for eight years principal of the A. B. Hill school, will be re-elected. So far as can be learned the attitude of the board is unchanged and a forecast of its action would indicate that the vote will remain three against his reinstatement and two favoring it.

Prof. Deen left Memphis lazt year to take up Y. M. C. A. work in France. He and his friends declare that he secured the grai permission of three members of the beard of education before leaving. During his absence Mrs. Frances Landis was made principal of the A. B. Hill school, and she has been elected to that place for the coming term.

Since his return to Memphis, retends the A. B. Hill school and she has been elected to that place for the coming term.

Since his return to Memphis, friends of Prof. Deen have petitioned the board for his re-election, but their action in solding a mass meeting during the course of which board members claim "lawlessness" was advocated and the children advised not to register for entrance into the school, has aroused some members of the board. The opinion is being expressed that the patrons of the school should have taken the matter up first with the board before resorting to the drastic steps which they have been charged with using.

That Prof. Deen should not be charged with the action of some of his friends who were possibly over-zealous is the plea that is being made for him and in view of the further fact that he ieft his work, family and home to enter Y. M. C. A. work they feel that he should be restored to his former position, it being the acknowledged policy of the board and the public generally to give back their former positions to their employees who entered service.

FIGHTING "DOC"

Made Brilliant Record At tached to Fifth Marines. To Attend "Y" Welcome.

Dr. John H. Clifford, known throughout the American expeditionary forces as "Doc of the Fifth marines," who made a brilliant record as a fighting Y. M. C. A. secretary, arrived here Thursday to attend the welcome home service for the returned "Y" secretaries of Memphis and vicinity, to be held here Thursday evening and Friday.

Dr. Clifford wears the croix de guerre, which he won in Bellean Wood, when he went to the reacure of Col. Albertus W. Catlin, when that officer fell from schrappel wounds. While making the rescue Dr. Clifford was knocked down by a fragment of schrappiel, which struck him in the back. Thinking that it was only a plece of masonry that had hit him, he continued in the fight and remained at the front two days after he was hit.

He then became helpiese, and by the time he reached the hospital at Paris his lower limbs were practically paralyzed, and the doctors said that he would never walk again. But in five weeks he was discharged from the hospital, assigned to a quiet sector, where he could not even hear the sound of a run. Watching his chance when the superior officer was away, he left for his old regiment, making his way without a pass on trucks bound for the front. He was on the front lines ten days before it was known at head-quarters that he had reported for duty. Throughout the war he was with the Fifth and Sixth marines. Twice he was awarded the Lorraine cross while in action by one of the French officers.

When Dr. Clifford returned to this country the national war work council convened a special session to hear him recount his experiences. He has been granted the privilege of wearing the official emblem of the marine corps, the only civilian that over won that distinction.

The New York Herald is now running a serial story telling of Dr. Clifford's ion.

The New York Herald is now running a serial story telling of Dr. Clifford's experiences at the front, five numbers of which have already appeared in its nday editions. Thursday night he will tell of some of the thrilling experiences encountered by the Y. M. C. A. secretaries at the front when he speaks at the First Method-let church at the welcome service.

M. B. Creedle asks $15,000 from Fleming and J. D. Browne, alleging that their automobile injured him while he was riding on his motorcycle on the Horn Lake road on July 21.

Felix West wants $2,000 for injuries received when a car of the Memphis Street raflway struck his automobile at Beale avenue and Turley street on Aug. 21.

NEW ROUTE LIKELY FOR OZARK TRAIL

The completion of a hard-surface highway between Des Arc. Ark., Cotton Plant and Hunter without delay, is being urged by W. W. Hayley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, as this route may be chosen for the Ogark trall from Arkansas to Oklahoma, crossing the Mississippi river over the Harahan bridge at Memphis. The route has already been adopted by the Muscle Shoals highway association.

The present route of the Ogark trail into Memphis is through Springfield, Mo., along the Frisco through Hardy and Jonesboro, Ark.

EVER HEAR OF GOLD TOOTH TIGER? DEMPSEY HAS ONE

Did you ever hear of a gold-toothed tiger? Well, there's one in the menager of the Sells-Ficto circus, which will exhibit at North Memphis Driving park Saturday. And the gold tooth was put there through a whim of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, who was an added attraction with the circus in the latter part of August.

When Dempsey's engagement ended, the show's manager, Henry B. Gentry made him a present of one of three new cubs in the tiger colony of the little tiger did not have much tuck as the darling of a champion pugilist.

thought the U. S. would be too easy with Germany.

"They were pitifies then," be said,
"they are pitiful now"

The American dead in the war, Mr. Wilson declared, had fought not for the redemption of America, but for the redemption of the world. It was one of the hardest of his trials during the war, he said, to be able merely to direct the policies of the nation and not "to take a gun and go myself."

The hasic principle of the treaty, said Mr. Wilson, was that the territory everywhere belongs to the people who live upon it. It was the laborious work of many minds, he added, and "has very few compromises in it," following in general American specifications. Should it fail, he declared, it would be impossible to get together again the elements necessary to make a new settlement. The United States either must take the treaty, he said, or play a lone hand in world affairs.

Must Pay the Cost.

"If you're going to play a lone hand," said he, "the hand that you play must have a weapon in it. And the weapon must be all the young men of the country, and the business of the country, and the piper."

There was a spirit of unrest everywhere, he continued, and it was the province of the treaty to set up an industrial demogracy as well as a collection. province of the treaty to set up an in-dustrial democracy as well as a polit-ical democracy. He continued that there were domestic questions to be set-tled in that connection because there could be no industrial democracy as ong as monopolies existed.

He was interrupted by applause when he added: "And we have not yet finished with

He was interrupted by applause when he added:

"And we have not yet finished with the monoplies."

Citing again the upheaval in Russia, the president asked if his hearers had not seen evidences of the spread of the unrest. It was the "dread" of every statesman in Europe, he continued, and a propaganda was spreading it in the United States.

"There are apostles of Lenine in our midst," he said, "and it means to be an apostle of darkness. Our business is to ee that no minority, ne matter how rich, no matter how poor, shall get control of the United States."

The purification of political conditions never could be accomplished until the treaty was accented and peace established. Some men debating the treaty, he added, seem to think there was "leisure," but there should be no leasurely discussion of such an issue.

Repeating declarations made in his previous addresses the president said the whole heart was in the provision for discussion, and arbitration of international controversies.

"You can't hate a fellow, you know," said Mr. Wilson. "I know some crooks I can't help liking."

The league may not prevent all wars, he said, but 19 per cest insurance was better than none.

Saying he heard "radicalism" pervaded the West, Mr. Wilson continued: "There is only one way to beat radicalism, are—that is to deprive it of food. The only way to keep, men from agitating against a grievance is to remove the grievance."

He endded as long as there were things that should be corrected he did not ask that men stop agitating, but requested only "that they agitate in an orderly manner."

Asked for It.

Asked for It.

Mr. Wilson read from a naval appro-priation bill passed by congress during the war requesting the president to try to secure an international court to setinternational disputes and accorle international disputes and accom-onlish disarmament.

"And now they've got it," he con-imued, "they don't like it. It came much sconer than they expected and apparently took them so much by sur-prise that it confused their minda."

Mr. Wilson said he "repudiated" the suggestion that the other nations were not acting in good faith in forming the league and asked that any instance he cited in which. France, thaly, Great Britain or Japan had not fulfilled their promises.

"Japan has kept her engagements" said the president, adding he had the wallest confidence that all the league members would act in good faith.

The president said he was "just as sure as what the verdict of this nation will be as if it had already been rendered. His contact with the plain people had convinced him, he said, that the United States wanted the league of nations.
